

09-15 Seymour SNL bus leaves at 1 and return around 8.

Point 1: When we consider our faith, we must remember that our first priority is to _____ the Lord our God with ALL our _____, All our _____, All our _____ and All our _____. (Mark 12:28-34) This means He must be our _____ in all of our life.

Point 2: If we are going to be _____ in determining our priorities we can ask ourselves some honest questions that will help us evaluate where we are.

Point 3: The first question is, "For what do you sacrifice your _____?" Matthew 6:24 tells us we cannot have two masters. How we spend our money will tell us a lot about our priorities.

Point 4: The next question is, "When you are _____, where do you go or to what do you turn for comfort?" If it is anything except God via Christ, we may want to consider in whom or what we are trusting.

Point 5: Question 3 is, "How do you spend your _____?" The pursuit of our interests, hobbies, comfort, entertainment, money, promotion, wealth, etc. before our pursuit of holiness, Godliness, and a relationship with God may show us where our _____ priorities lie.

Point 6: Final questions; "What _____ you or _____ you the most?" and, "What _____ you the most?" These questions can often tell you about something that has become too important in your life, often to the point of becoming a "false god."

Point 7: If you have anything _____ God, His kingdom, His righteousness, His purposes, you need to _____ your priorities. You have been forgiven much. How much do you owe?

Ever had one of those mornings? I mean one of those mornings when you don't remember if you are coming or going? I had one of those this morning. I was leaving Wichita Christian School trying to get back to the office as quickly as possible. It was wet out from the rain and I had already gotten behind because of paperwork issues. So, in order to save time, I was "multi-tasking." In truth, I had a television in one hand, a DVD player in the other, my computer slung in a bag over my shoulder, a bottle of coke in one pocket, my billfold in the other, my keys wrapped around one finger and my phone in my mouth. (I know, I know) After getting out to my car standing in a small puddle, I found out that I had the wrong set of keys on that finger and so I had to try to fish out the other set of keys from my pocket with the Coke without being able to set down the electronics because of the weather.

It was at this time that I happened to focus my eyes on my phone which, still hanging from my mouth, showed a call with Tommy Simms. Unable to do anything except to make choking sounds, I continued through the process of fishing out my keys, unlocking the car and unburdening myself. Only by then it was too late. The call was lost. And so, as I sat down in my car I called Tommy. Now imagine the conversation when Margaret answered. "Hello?"

"Hi Margaret. It's Todd. Did I call you or did you call me?"
 "What? I heard the phone ringing but, Tommy is out on a walk and..."

Between us, we got a chuckle as I explained that I must have accidentally "pocket dialed" them while holding my phone in my mouth from being so busy yet finding myself unable to talk.

And that was what hit me. You see, many times I am busy in my life. In fact, I get so busy with all the stuff I feel I have to hold on to that I sometimes, maybe even often, get my communications with God messed up. I am unsure if I am supposed to be talking to Him or if He is trying to talk to me. So, often I feel like I have to unload...unburden myself before I can make that call to straighten it out because I am unable to effectively talk or listen to God when I have too much going on.

My thought for today is simply this...make sure that your lines of communication with God are clear and open. Talk to Him in prayer. Listen to Him in His word. And when it comes time to unburden, cast your burdens on Him. He cares about you. Have a blessed week.
