Small Groups Meet Tonight

Why "JUST" loving God is not enough

I love my wife. How? You may ask.

Here is our short story: We met in the Adventures In Missions program in Lubbock Texas. From the beginning of the program, we were worked together and got to know each other. Then we ended up going to the same mission field in Salt Lake City. Since we were team mates, we worked together even more, which gave us lots of time to get to know each other and grow closer. I realized that I was starting to fall for this girl. We both love adventures, music and most of all, our God. She liked me and I liked her so we began to date. At that point, I realized we were on to something so I asked her to marry me. For some reason, she said yes. We got married and decided to serve our God in Henrietta. I love my wife.

We have a history and the more I knew she would not kill me, the more I loved her. And still do. I mean let's face it. She has her chance every time I go to sleep.

I didn't said "I love you" the first time I met her. I didn't say, "Marry me because you are a Christian and a female and really good looking. That's all I need to know" Nope. Did not say that either

But, sometimes people (Christians included) do this to God, Jesus and the Holy Spirit. God loves me....sent His Son for me....I get the Holy Spirit at baptism.....eh I'm good.

That is just the starting point. I have no right or authority to tell anyone where they will spend eternity. But I am concerned for people who do not go further with their relationship because there are instructions and our standards as children of God and servants of Christ in God's word that we need to know. We must study and read or Jesus might not even recognize us before God (read Matthew 25:31-46).

There is so much God wants to tell you. Please read your bible and listen to the creator of the cosmos who just so happens to be the creator of you.

is not believing that God can it is knowing that He will.

Our Church Cookbook needs more pages!! If you haven't provided a recipe, or you have another one or ten you would like to share, please submit them! You can bring a copy to the office, or email it to the church office at henriettacofc@sbcglobal.net
